1       WHEREAS, the Bali Field School has connected the islands of Guam and Bali 2 in meaningful ways by inviting a great number of other scholars, filmmakers, and 3 cultural leaders to Guam to share and engage our community in critical discourse on 4 the preservation of culture and values; and

5       WHEREAS, for the past twenty years University of Guam students studying 6 community development have ventured to Bali, Indonesia to immerse themselves in 7 meaningful and life-changing cross-cultural experiences and who learn first hand from 8 community development practitioners, local and international scholars, cultural 9 artisans, and community organizers; and

10       WHEREAS, the Bali Field School has proven to be an invaluable educational 11 experience for students of community development to travel abroad, to live and 12 experience an entirely new culture together, and most especially, apply their 13 knowledge in their communities back home; now, therefore be it

14       RESOLVED, that the Committee on Rules of I Mina'trentai Singko Na
